Has a party of automobile folks come in here since eight oclock he asked of the man at the desk. Yes, replied the clerk, turning over one page of the big book. The boys hearts gave a sort of jerk-it must be their girls, of course. Have they registered went on Jack. Were there three cars, and a number of girls The man looked down the list of names. Here they are, he said, indicating some fresh writing on the page. Jack scanned it eagerly. Then he looked at Ed and Walter. Not them! he almost gasped. We have got to turn back! Make sure they have not come in, and are on some porch, said Ed. They may not have had a chance to get into the office. But all inquiries failed to give any clue to the lost party, and, without waiting for any refreshments, the almost exhausted young men cranked up their muddy cars, and started off again over the very road they had just succeeded in safely covering. Weve got to have more spunk if we intend to find them, said Ed, for Jack seemed too overcome to speak. Why, they may be snug by some farm-house fire, actually enjoying the situation. I hope so, faltered Jack. But next time Ill go along-not after them, and he threw in high gear, advanced the spark and then they fairly flew over the turnpike, back to the fork that must have hidden the secret of the turn in the road. CHAPTER XV-BOYS TO THE RESCUE Never had a ride seemed so treacherous. Sharp turns threatened to overturn the cars and the brakes,...
